ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This inventory, which updates the preliminary subject list issued in November 1970, represents a complete revision and an increase in the number of entries. The authors are indebted to the continued interest shown by many of the contributors to the first list. A number of new contributors including Lois Brodsky, Clark Jurgemeyer, Larry Kapustka and Errol Rohr have provided much of the new material and have helped make this a thoroughly cooperative effort. Linda Hardin of the City Planning Library deserves special recognition for her efforts in organizing the Champaign County collection in that library.

We would like to express our appreciation to Janet Bloom for the time and patience she has shown in her work which included extensive bibliographic searching and verification of citations and all of the typing. Terence Crowley, Director of the Library Research Center, continued to recognize the value of this project and provide the necessary staff time. Members of the Library Research Center staff, La Verne Caroline, Yolanda Harris and Terry Mau, have given the needed staff support helping us contact community members as well as proof reading and collation of the text.

SCOPE

This revised list includes over 150 new citations (the symbol " * " is used throughout to distinguish the new entries) for a total of over 500 citations to recorded information. Included are books, journal articles, research reports, unpublished student papers, theses, correspondence and leaflets written primarily from 1955 to February 1971.

The items were found by searching the main University of Illinois card catalog, University departmental libraries, the Champaign and Urbana public libraries and the Parkland College Learning Resource Center. The chain of contacts resulting from interviews with librarians, professors and community leaders provided the bulk of the unpublished, little known but potentially important, material. There has been no attempt to evaluate any of this material.

It should be noted that city, state and federal offices in Champaign and Urbana have not been visited for available material. Also, a few entries were deleted because it was discovered that the material included did not specifically deal with Champaign-Urbana.

It must be emphasized that this is not an all-inclusive list; more information sources and reports are being sought. This will be the final complete list; however, supplements will be issued as the sources are uncovered. If this list is to grow in utility, your cooperation is needed in alerting us to materials newly generated or discovered. If you locate items not included in this inventory, please notify the Library Research Center.

ARRANGEMENT

The material included has been arranged in the broad subject classifications listed in the Table of Contents. Within each subject the material is listed chronologically with the most recent first. The works which were not dated are listed together at the end of each subject area.

Where known, we have included the designation "Student paper" or "Thesis" to better enable the user to determine possible coverage, point of view, etc. Annotations have been included for some of the items, some of which were provided by members of Professor Heifitz' 1970 fall studio class. An evaluative statement was included where provided by the students.

THEORY

1. Introduction

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effect of the independent variable on the dependent variable. The study is designed to test the following hypotheses:

- H1: There is a positive relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.
- H2: There is a negative relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.
- H3: There is no significant relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

2. Literature Review

The literature review discusses the previous studies conducted in this field. It highlights the findings of Smith (2010) and Jones (2012), who both found a positive relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

Furthermore, the review mentions the work of Brown (2015), who found a negative relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

The review also notes the findings of White (2018), who found no significant relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

Based on the literature review, it is expected that the study will find a positive relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

The study is designed to test the following hypotheses:

H1: There is a positive relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

H2: There is a negative relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

H3: There is no significant relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

The study is designed to test the following hypotheses:

H1: There is a positive relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

H2: There is a negative relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

H3: There is no significant relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

The study is designed to test the following hypotheses:

H1: There is a positive relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

H2: There is a negative relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

H3: There is no significant relationship between the independent variable and the dependent variable.

C.P. Bartholomew (Harland) and Associates. Champaign-Urbana urban area transportation study; interim reports. Memphis, Tennessee, 1967-1969.
Interim Report B: Most data from mid-1960's; land use survey, 1967. Useful source for general background information.
Interim Report C: Trend projection to 1985 for employment, vehicle ownership and population. Interim Report B is data base for this study. Assumptions weak, techniques questionable.
Interim Report D: Transportation facilities inventory with data to 1965. Useful background data but no conclusions or recommendations.
Interim Report E: A report on traffic model and assignment techniques including a trip length frequency calibration, a highway network assignment comparison and a summarization of the validity checks of the mathematical model developed for the transportation study.
Interim Report F: Inventory and review of existing laws and zoning ordinances to 1965.
Interim Report G: Primarily charts and raw data (1965) for origin and destination studies.
Interim Report H: Transportation and travel pattern forecast to 1985. Data for all modes of transportation but no attention is given to sociological factors in the forecasts.
Interim Report J: 1967 data on terminal and transfer facilities including parking with forecasts to 1985. Concludes that parking is adequate in Champaign and Urbana except in the university area.
